

Two weeks ago, nine coastal First Nations including the Haida, Haisla, and Gitiga'at vowed to stop oil tankers shipping tar sands crude along BC's coast by any means necessary. It was a tremendous show of unity and will be remembered as a turning point in the campaign to protect BC's coast from oil spills.

Now it's time to show big oil what we are made of.

In the coming weeks we'll be pushing hard to cement not only Enbridge's withdrawal from the project, but a legislated tanker ban that would protect our coast from similar projects well into the future. The campaign isn't won yet, but we are closer than ever before.

I'd like to invite you to be part of the No Tanker Action Team that will help push this campaign over the top. The only prerequisite is that you love BC's coast and are committed to protecting it. Sign up here to be part of the action.

<http://dogwoodinitiative.org/notankers/actions/no-tankers-action-team/>

Our No Tanker Action Team list is only for those committed to seeing this campaign through. We promise to help find the most strategically advantageous actions for you to take and give you regular campaign updates. By signing up you are promising to do what you can to defend our coast from oil spills.

Sign up here.

For the coast,

Charles

PLEASE DONATE

